

SpinAtorim™

MIRACLE® MUSEUM™

Kids will love spinning the earth while enjoying soothing sounds made by beads. Continents provide opportunities for learning and gameplay!

Miracle Museum's SpinAtorium is easy to spin, and its map of the world creates opportunities for conversation and learning. It encourages social play, including solitary and on-looker; sensory play, including auditory and visual; and other types of play, such as functional and symbolic.

The SpinAtorium is designed for kids 2-12 years old. From a learning perspective, it's particularly appropriate for children ages 7 and up since identifying the continents and major oceans are second-grade objectives for social studies in many states. The design of this product also suggests basic physics concepts related to movement and force. However, children younger than 7 years will still have a blast rotating SpinAtorium and experiencing the bead movement.

The design of the SpinAtorium reinforces this kind of learning as well as suggests basic physics concepts related to movement and force. While children younger than 7 years may not yet have a framework to grasp the geography and science implications, they will enjoy the bead movement that results when they rotate the SpinAtorium. Kids with sensory processing disorder, such as autism, may also be attracted to this piece as a result of the bead movement and auditory stimulation.
